Cleveland Area Kids Are Coming Together to Raise Funds for Breast Cancer

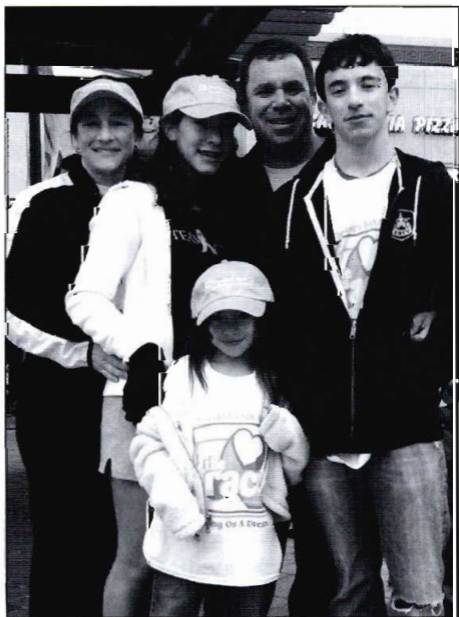

Lace up your running shoes and get moving for a great cause. "The Race" is celebrating its eighth annual event for breast cancer.

The idea for The Race began with Josh Berns, now a 19-year-old teenager from Hunting Valley, and his sister Dani, 17, who wanted to help others going through the breast cancer journey. Just a year after organizing the first race, their own mother, Patti Berns, was diagnosed with breast cancer.

Families and individuals alike can participate in "The Race," – a one-mile walk/run at Legacy Village, Lyndhurst. Registration opens at 8 a.m. on Sunday, May 8, leading into the event at 9 a.m.

The cost to participate is $15 per person. To register, visit www.dotherace.com/register/. All proceeds from the event will remain in Cleveland and will be donated to the Cleveland Clinic Taussig Cancer Institute. Last year, "The Race" raised over $125,000.

Every race participant will receive a t-shirt. Refreshments, entertainment, prizes and fun children's activities will be part of the festivities. Prizes will be awarded to the individual who raises the most money and to the school/team with the greatest participation.
